

PROPOSITION

Resolved; that

Japan should possess nuclear weapons.

Thirty years after World War II is long enough to make us reconsider what defense is, and how it should be, especially as we Japanese exposed ourselves to bitter defeat in the last battle.

The change of atmosphere in Asian countries accompanied by the termination of the Vietnam War especially compels us to give deeper thought on national defense. Furthermore, a lot of debate is now under way on the issues of nuclear weapons.

As students in Japan, to catch up with the current controversy, we would like to propose to you for an open forum, to speak out your logical and feasible ideas on this important issue.
